McDonnell Investment Management, LLC
Announces
Retirement of Ed Treichel and Appointment of Mark Giura as CEO Successor
May 15, 2015

Oakbrook Terrace, IL (May 15, 2015) – McDonnell Investment Management, LLC (“McDonnell”) announced that Ed Treichel, having served as Chief Executive Officer & President since the founding of the firm in 2001, is retiring. He will be succeeded as CEO by Mark Giura, currently Chief Investment Officer and also a founding member of McDonnell.

Under Ed’s guidance, the firm developed a broad array of fixed income product offerings to meet clients’ investment goals and evolved into a premier fixed income asset manager with $12 billion under management.

“I’m extremely proud to have worked with a talented team of investment and client service professionals and, with them, to have built a world class investment organization,” said Ed. “It is now the proper time to transfer my leadership responsibilities. I’m most confident in the abilities of Mark and the members of the management team to continue to deliver the quality investment product and service that our clients expect.”

In addition to serving as CEO, Mark will retain his role of CIO.

“It has been a privilege to work with Ed,” Mark said. “I am honored to accept this position as his successor, and I am committed to continuing Ed’s legacy of success - delivering customized investment solutions and outstanding service to our clients.”

Mark has more than 25 years of investment industry experience and has been with McDonnell for 14 years. Prior to becoming CIO he served as Managing Director and Co-Head of Fixed Income, with oversight of the core bond portfolio management team. He has been a member of McDonnell’s Board of Managers since its formation and is a long standing member of the Investment Policy Committee.
